Welcome to our services!

Welcome everyone to St John's Church, West Byfleet for our services this Sunday. Please join us after the service for refreshments and please do make yourselves known to the ministers or churchwardens. If you would like to receive regular copies of this notice sheet, please send your email address to Vicky in the Parish Office – admin@stjohnswestbyfleet.org.uk

All children are very welcome at St John's – and please don't worry if they are restless, or sometimes noisy. The Children's Corner is situated at the front of the church on the left; you are most welcome to spend time there during the service. Toilets and changing facilities can be found in our adjacent Cornerstone Centre.

Would you like someone to pray with you?

A member of the Pastoral Team will be available to pray with you after the 10am service each Sunday. If you would like to take this opportunity, please make your way to the Prayer Corner at the end of the service and one of us will be waiting for you. The Minister leading the service on the day may also be available.

Large print versions of the Notices Sheet and of the Order of Service are available from the welcomers

Please make use of our hearing loop system if this would be helpful to you

Keith writes....

Who were the Magi? And what are we to make of their role in the Christmas story? The consensus view is that they were probably from Persia, were men of learning and, likely, Zoroastrians – an ancient faith which posits an eternal battle between the forces of good and evil. Learning was a rich man's activity in those days, so we may assume they were also wealthy, perhaps from important Persian families. Their historical and astrological studies give rise to the conviction that a star would show them the birthplace of a new king of the Jews. (Astrology was then, and for many centuries after, seen as a normal part of the intellectual landscape.)

In the Gospels the Magi represent two things. The first is human wisdom and learning. The Magi show us the world of human philosophy and study recognising and worshipping Christ. It emphasises the unique and definitive nature of the revelation in Christ. The second is that it shows us Gentiles, non-Jews, being part of the Christmas story and prefigures the widespread acceptance of Christ beyond Israel which was to come. In fact, in the gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh, it is the Magi who recognise the nature and destiny of Christ, both his death and his kingship.

I cannot help but wonder what the Magi made of what they found after reflecting on it afterwards? Was it a kind of end for them and their philosophy (as T.S. Eliot suggests in his poem The Journey of the Magi)? Or was it the start of something new and hopeful? In a way they are us, the Gentile Christians they foreshadowed. For us it is hope, light, possibility.
