Grace, meaning 'favour' or 'gift' (translating the Latin gratia and the Greek charis) refers to God's unconditional love for the world, shown in the gifts he gives to the human race – life, food, intelligence, friendship and, above all, forgiveness and the new life in Christ. None of these things are earned or deserved. They are simply gifts – to be received humbly and gratefully.

God despairs of the people of Israel because they have made religious observance more important than their relationship with God.	The key to understanding the story of God's people, from the call of Abraham onwards, is faith in the God whose promises have found fulfilment in the death and resurrection of Jesus.	Jesus demonstrates his and God's priorities by eating with unsuitable companions and making himself unclean by performing acts of healing and resurrection.
