well as the fundraising success, it was a lovely occasion to enjoy the company of all ages.

Calling Cake Bakers!

Fladbury Walkabout is always very grateful for any offers of cakes to feed our hungry visitors. Cakes can be brought to the hall from 9am on either Saturday (4th July) or Sunday (5th July) morning of Walkabout. It is helpful if cake containers could be labelled with the owner's name and cake description.

Thank you (with a cherry on top)!

Christian Aid Week

Many thanks to all who helped to raise just over £1,599 in May for Christian Aid, through the bring&buy stall and raffle during Coffee & Cake in Fladbury Social Club, a few envelope donations and donations on-line direct to Christian Aid. With so many charities appealing for help, this is a worthy amount to help people in deprived parts of the world protect their communities from hunger and poverty.

Flowers in Church for Fladbury Walkabout

Several people have gathered together to plan the Church flower arrangements for the Walkabout weekend – Colours of the Countryside and Garden. We are trying to find locally grown flowers and greenery. If you have anything spare in your gardens which you think would be helpful, please let us know and we will collect on the Thursday or Friday morning (2nd and 3rd July) before the Walkabout.

Stewards will be needed in the church over the Walkabout weekend. Please let me know if you can spare an hour or two.

In the corner of the church, there will be a colouring table for children and adults – and hopefully beautiful flowers for all to see!

Eco Church - caring for God's creation

Why is the Idea of Climate Change Controversial?

“Climate change itself isn’t scientifically controversial. More than 99.9% of peer-reviewed scientific papers agree that humans are the primary driver of global warming. The controversy is political, economic, and psychological, rooted in decades of deliberate misinformation campaigns, genuine economic anxiety, cultural identity, and media practices that gave fringe views equal footing with established science.”
