Anglican Priest's Reflection for October

When chatting together we still refer to places long since closed, such as the Torteval Shopper, every bit as much as we speak of The Imperial, for they all became part of our culture and community.

Similarly, at church, we recall the bible stories and the hymns from our childhood that, even when we grow up, are still a part of us and our faith: the 'Lost Sheep' and 'Jesus bids us shine with a clear pure light', come to mind. We should never dismiss the value that these names, places, Bible stories and hymns had in helping us to be rooted in our community, our church, and our faith.

As the evenings draw in, we are reminded at Evensong, how throughout his life, continuity and community were great nurturers for Simeon's faith. For, when we sing his song, the Nunc Dimittis, it shows how he drew on his faith from early beginnings and similar to our childhood hymn, he reminds us how Christ's light shines into a darkened world:

'To be a light to lighten the Gentiles:
and to be the glory of thy people Israel.' (Luke 2:32)

May we continue to be clear, pure lights that shine Christ's light into the world, today.
