November 2026

November a time for Remembering

November invites us to pause. As the days grow shorter and the leaves fall, the season seems to ask us to look back—to remember the people, experiences and sacrifices that have shaped our lives. Remembering is more than recalling names or dates. It is an act of gratitude. We remember those who served in times of conflict, those who worked for peace, and those whose quiet courage supported families and communities through uncertainty and loss. We also remember people close to us whose kindness, wisdom or example still influences the way we live. Memory can carry sadness, but it can also carry responsibility. If we remember the cost of division, we can choose understanding. If we remember the courage of others, we can act with courage ourselves. If we remember the love we have received, we can pass that love on. So, in November, let us make room for silence and reflection. Let us speak the names and share the stories of those we do not want to forget. And when the moment of remembrance has passed, let us carry its meaning into our everyday lives—with gratitude, compassion, and a renewed commitment to peace.

A Prayer of Remembrance

Merciful God, in this month of remembrance we pause with heavy yet grateful hearts. We remember those who left the warmth of home and the embrace of those they loved, never to return. We honour their courage, their selfless sacrifice, and every precious hope and unfinished dream they laid down for the sake of others. Draw close to all who still carry the ache of loss: to families who keep an empty place, to friends who remember a familiar voice, and to communities forever changed by conflict. Hold them in your tender care. Heal the wounds that war leaves behind, and strengthen all who labour for justice, reconciliation, and peace. May their memory live not only in our words, but in the way we choose to live with courage when the path is hard, with compassion for those who suffer, and with a steadfast resolve to make peace. When silence falls, help us to remember each life, each story, and each love that endured. Let us never forget the cost of war and guide our feet in the way of peace. Never giving up in the hope peace will one day come. May the God of hope fill us with all with peace as we trust in Him, so that we may overflow with hope by the power of the Holy Spirit. Amen
