

Story of the Wise Men Part 6

After the stop over the wise men arrived at the Broadcast Engineering group museum in Hemswell North Lincolnshire.

Here they were hoping to find out how television could be used to broadcast to the world about the birth of the baby Jesus.

They looked at the main control and also how outside broadcast could help them as these vehicles could be transported to the location more easily.

Continuing on with their visit, they looked at camera technology and met with Roland Rat.

The wise-men had a very informative day but it was time to go back and return the bubble car and collect the camels for the final leg of their journey to visit the baby Jesus.
