Readings for Sunday: Genesis 2.15-17; 3.1-7; Romans 5.12-19; Matthew 4.1-11

We are now heading into the season of Lent, when we seek to examine ourselves, to recognise our flaws and sins, and to draw closer to God, seeking his forgiveness and promise of new life. This Sunday we start at the beginning, as our readings prompt us to think about the nature of temptation and sin.

Back in the history of the Church, in the 5th Century, one of the major conflicts in what people believed about Jesus' saving power took place between two great thinkers, Augustine and Pelagius. Pelagius argued that people were capable of overcoming temptation and sin themselves, and that Jesus was just an example and encouragement for them to do better. Augustine on the other hand understood sin as something that people simply weren't able to overcome by themselves. Everybody without exception needed the power of Jesus to save them from that sin and temptation and place them on the right path.

We see in the Bible again and again the story played out of how right Augustine was. Human beings might desire to do good, but time and again they fall short. Temptation is too much for them, and they fall away, even with the best of guidance. Jesus offers us something that is otherwise unreachable for us. Only he was able to stand against the temptations offered to him, in the Wilderness as in our reading this morning from Matthew's Gospel, but throughout the rest of his life as well. Jesus is the only human ever who was without sin, even though he was tempted and tested as all of us are.

In the world today, through the marvels of the information age, we see in glorious technicolour just how terrible human beings can be. We turn against God's commands to love the world, to till and keep it; to love Him; to love one another. We see violence, selfishness, hatred and cruelty displayed in crystal clarity. We see how wrong this is. And often we can see no way beyond it. What can one person do against this tide of evil?

When these feelings rise in us, then is the time to turn to our readings this morning. This evil that humanity can brew up can be resisted, can be conquered, and has been – by our Lord and Saviour, who offers us hope and strength day after day to start afresh and to do better, for ourselves and for others. In Lent we don't look away from sin – we look at it directly, even if that looking hurts. We've seen this sin defeated. Jesus didn't give up, and with his power, we won't either.

So at the beginning of this season of penitence and reflection; my prayer is for courage. For that stout-hearted refusal to give up or give in to despair or nihilism, because we are people of the light, and Jesus shines with and for us. Be brave, and let's stand together.

Prayer/Thought for the Week

True love does not come by finding the perfect person, but by learning to see an imperfect person perfectly.

God of beauty, ruler of life, we thank you for the beauty of the natural world in which we live, we pray for the places within our world which are struggling to come to life in some way, whether through human action or natural means.

We pray for those places within our local community which are struggling to come to life in some way whether through the actions of local people or broader governmental decisions. As we see new life increase around us in the natural world, may we be inspired to revitalize our own lives at this Lenten time and allow your Holy Spirit to cleanse and work through each one of us.

We pray in Jesus' name and for his glory. AMEN

⌚ EMAIL SECURITY GUIDE

How to Protect Yourself and What to Do if Your Email is Compromised

⚠ If Your Email Account Has Been Hacked – Act Immediately

Step 1: Try to log in to your email account

- If you can still log in, change your password immediately.
- Choose a strong, new password you have never used before.
- If you can't log in, use your recovery email (if you have one set up) or contact your email provider for help.

Step 2: Check your sent emails

- Look at your Sent Items folder.
- Check if emails were sent that you did not send.
- If so, call your contacts and warn them not to click any links.

Step 3: Check for sensitive information

Look for emails containing:

- Bank details
- Passwords
- Personal information
- Account login details

If found:

- Contact your bank immediately
- Change passwords on important accounts
- Ask providers to freeze or secure your accounts if necessary

Step 4: Check for email forwarding rules

Hackers often create hidden rules to spy on your emails.

Check for:

- Forwarding to unknown email addresses
- Rules you did not create

If you find any:

- Delete them immediately

Step 5: Enable Multi-Factor Authentication (MFA)

This adds an extra layer of protection.

- You will receive a code on your phone
- Even if someone knows your password, they cannot log in
- Enable this in your email account security settings

News on Church Flowers from the General Synod

The General Synod has backed on 12 February 2026, a motion encouraging churches and cathedrals to explore ways of arranging flowers that are both beautiful and environmentally responsible.

The motion passed was:

That this synod:

- a) embrace the principles of the Sustainable Church Flowers movement which encourages a living into the Fifth Mark of Mission by promoting the use of local, seasonal and fully biodegradable/compostable flowers and foliage.
- b) encourage cathedrals, churches and churchyards - wherever possible - to source flowers and foliage locally and seasonally for use in worship and church life.
- c) call on cathedrals, churches and churchyards to eliminate the use of floral foam (oasis) and all similar non-biodegradable and non-reusable products and techniques, while rediscovering traditional environmentally friendly methods of presentation and display.

As an ambassador for the Sustainable Church Flowers movement since its inception in 2019, and keen church flower arranger, I welcome this news and am truly thankful to the many clergy of our diocese, including Bishop Robert, who supported the motion.

More information, including a 7 minute film which describes the reasons for and practicalities of the motion, is available on the Church of England website www.churchofengland.org

Thank you Geoff & Hope

Fairford & District Choral Society will perform Mozart's Requiem and his Te Deum and Ave Verum Corpus on Saturday 28 March at 7pm at St Mary's Church Fairford. There will be professional soloists and an organ accompanist. Tickets are £15 and are available from Fairford Opticians.

High Five Project 2026 – Raising Funds for Children's Charities

The Magic Breakfast. Glos Young Carers.

The Rainbow Trust. Smile Train. Home Start Cotswolds.

We have lots of exciting events coming up and need your help! Can you offer a RAFFLE PRIZE for our Wine Tasting Quiz Evening on 7th March? There is a box in the church office for collection. Could you be a QUICHE COOK for the event as well? We're happy to pay for ingredients.

Help us make the world a better place for the children supported by these charities. Read all about the project, the team, the individual charities, and our events in the High Five Booklet by the Stewards' Desk in the church. A summary is also on the church website.

Thank you. Linda, Meg, Jos, and Hope.

Dancercise. A Dancercise Group meets at Poulton Village Hall every Tuesday 10.30-11.30am, especially for those 'not so young', with music from the 60s, 70s, 80s. Nothing too taxing – simple exercises and fun dancing. £3 a session on the day – all subs go to High Five Project.

A request from the Parish Office

When sending in posters etc for the Parish News. If possible could you please include posters which are image files. These image files will have file extensions of the form .jpg or .png. It would be a great help. Thank you.

From Fairford History Society

The next FHS meeting is on Friday 20 February at 2.30pm when Edwin Cuss will be presenting Fairford in Close up. Refreshments will be served from 2pm and after the meeting. A used book sale will also take place in the Heritage Room. These books are from the library of the late Geoff Hawkes and we are selling them to raise funds for new display boards in memory of Geoff. The subjects covered are diverse: fiction, literature and classics, religion, biography, poetry, cricket, UK local geography, history, music, art, food and drink, nature and gardening, etc. We are not pricing the books but asking for donations. There is no need to attend the meeting but come along to the book sale, 2-4pm!

Keith Barley, restorer of the Church windows completed in 2010 attended Geoff Hawkes Memorial Service and brought with his latest book on illuminating stained glass with the sub-titled 'creativity, conservation and craft at Barley Studio' The first section entitled 'Conservation and craft' describes work completed at various churches and cathedrals across the country and includes St Mary's, Fairford describing Keith's 20-year project. It is illustrated with the before restoration and after restoration in the east window, specifically the crucifixion of Christ and the two sinners where their faces have been sympathetically restored.

There follows a section about Helen Whittaker, MBE the Creative Director at Barley Studio. It describes her concepts and creative approach, and the variety of techniques used in creating stained glass and how they conceive projects for new buildings which blend the traditional and contemporary design. The book is beautifully illustrated with examples of their old and new designs. It shows how stained glass can play a significant role in our visual culture and heritage. The book is at the Steward's point in the Church.
