

Understanding the New Testament
Teaching on Homosexuality:
Must “Bible-believing Christians” be Anti-Gay?

Rev Dr Colin Hart

4 pm on Sunday 26 October
at Heswall United Reformed Church

Earlier this year, Colin gave a lecture under this title in Liverpool. He is now going to repeat it on this side of the Mersey.

In his lecture, Colin will look at the (sparse) New Testament teaching about same-sex attraction, sex acts and intimate relationships, in order to assess the widely-held view that “Bible-believing Christians” must condemn some or all of these.

Colin is well-qualified to speak on this subject, since he has research degrees in both New Testament and Ethics and taught both subjects for many years in a Church of England theological college. He has approached the topic not wanting to argue a case, but desiring to follow the truth wherever it led.
