THE INTRODUCTORY RITES

Choir sings the Introit, When to the temple Mary went.

Music composed by Johannes Eccard (1533-1611)

Text: John Troutbeck (1832-1899)

1. When to the temple Mary went,
And brought the holy child,
Him did the aged Simeon see,
As it had been revealed.
He took up Jesus in his arms
And blessing God he said:
In peace I now depart,
my Saviour having seen,
The hope of Israel, the light of men.
2. Help now thy servants, gracious Lord,
That we may ever be
As once the faithful Simeon was,
Rejoicing but in thee;
And when we must
from earth departure take,
May gently fall asleep
and with thee wake.

CANDLEMASS PROCESSION

The celebrant wears Purple Cope for the Procession.

The people's candles are lighted before the beginning of Mass.

Antiphon

The Lord will come with mighty power, and give light to the eyes of all who serve him.

The Greeting

✠ In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

The Lord be with you. And also with you.

The celebrant greets the people

Dear friends, forty days ago we celebrated the birth of our Lord Jesus Christ. Now we recall the day on which he was presented in the Temple, when he was offered to the Father and shown to his people. As a sign of his coming among us, his mother was purified, as we now come to him for cleansing. In their old age Simeon and Anna recognized him as their Lord, as we today sing of his glory. In this eucharist, we celebrate both the joy of his coming and his searching judgement, looking back to the day of his birth and forward to the coming days of his passion.

The celebrant blesses the candles, saying:

Lord God, the springing source of everlasting light, pour into the hearts of your faithful people the brilliance of your eternal splendour, that we, who by these kindling flames light up this temple to your glory, may have the darkness of our souls dispelled, and so be counted worthy to stand before you
in that eternal city where you live and reign, ✠ Father, Son and Holy Spirit, one God, now and for ever. Amen.

The celebrant sprinkles the candles with Holy Water and censes them.

He then takes the candle prepared for him,
and the procession begins with the acclamation:

Let us go forth in peace to meet the Lord.

During the Procession the Canticle of Simeon
(Nunc Dimittis, S. Luke 2: 29-32) is sung (NEH 506)

Response:

A light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel.

Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace:
according to thy word.

For mine eyes have seen : thy salvation; R./

Which thou hast prepared : before the face of all people;

To be a light to lighten the Gentiles :

and to be the glory of thy people Israel. R./

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son :

and to the Holy Ghost;

as it was in the beginning, is now,

and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

The celebrant changes into white vestments.

Entrance Antiphon

Your merciful love, O God, we have received in the midst of your temple.

Your praise, O God, like your name, reaches the ends of the earth;

Your right hand is filled with saving justice.

Cf. Psalm 48: 10-11

Let us go forth in peace,

in the name of Christ. Amen.

The Processional Hymn: 157

Hail to the Lord who comes (Tune: Old 120th)

The Lord be with you.

And also with you.

The Introduction to the Mass

The celebrant welcomes the people and introduces the Mass.

Prayers of Penitence

Sisters and brothers, to prepare ourselves to celebrate the sacred mysteries, let us call to mind and confess our sins.

The Confiteor

I confess to almighty God, and to you, my brothers and sisters,
that I have greatly sinned,
in my thoughts and in my words,
in what I have done,
and in what I have failed to do;

(And, striking their breast, they say:)

through my fault, through my fault, through my most grievous fault;

(Then they continue:)

therefore I ask blessed Mary, ever virgin,
all the angels and saints,
and you, my brothers and sisters,
to pray for me to the Lord, our God. Amen.

The celebrant pronounces the Absolution

Almighty God, who forgives all who truly repent, have mercy upon you, ✠ pardon and deliver you from all your sins, confirm and strengthen you in all goodness, and keep you in life eternal; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The choir sings The Kyrie Eleison

in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, now and for ever. Amen.

¶ THE LITURGY OF THE WORD

Sit for the readings

First Reading from the Old Testament

A reading from the Prophet Malachi (3: 1-5)

Thus says the Lord God: ¹ See, I am sending my messenger to prepare the way before me, and the Lord whom you seek will suddenly come to his temple. The messenger of the covenant in whom you delight - indeed, he is coming, says the LORD of hosts. ² But who can endure the day of his coming, and who can stand when he appears? For he is like a refiner's fire and like fullers' soap: ³ he will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver, and he will purify the descendants of Levi and refine them like gold and silver, until they present offerings to the LORD in righteousness. ⁴ Then the offering of Judah and Jerusalem will be pleasing to the LORD as in the days of old and as in former years. ⁵ Then I will draw near to you for judgement; I will be swift to bear witness against the sorcerers, against the adulterers, against those who swear falsely, against those who oppress the hired workers in their wages, the widow, and the orphan, against those who thrust aside the alien, and do not fear me, says the LORD of hosts.

The word of the Lord. Thanks be to God.

Psalm 24 is sung by the choir

Domini est terra

¹ THE earth is the Lord's, and all that therein is :
the compass of the world, and they that dwell therein.
² For he hath founded it upon the seas :
and prepared it upon the floods.
³ Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord :
or who shall rise up in his holy place?
⁴ Even he that hath clean hands, and a pure heart :
and that hath not lift up his mind unto vanity,
nor sworn to deceive his neighbour.
⁵ He shall receive the blessing from the Lord:
and righteousness from the God of his salvation.
⁶ This is the generation of them that seek him :
even of them that seek thy face, O Jacob.
⁷ Lift up your heads, O ye gates, and be ye lift up, ye everlasting doors :
and the King of glory shall come in.
⁸ Who is the King of glory :
it is the Lord strong and mighty, even the Lord mighty in battle.
⁹ Lift up your heads, O ye gates, and be ye lift up, ye everlasting doors :
and the King of glory shall come in.
¹⁰ Who is the King of glory :
even the Lord of hosts, he is the King of glory.

Second Reading from the New Testament

A reading from the letter to the Hebrews (2: 14-18)

¹⁴ Since the children share flesh and blood, Jesus himself likewise shared the same things, so that through death he might destroy the one who has the power of death, that is, the devil, ¹⁵ and free those who all their lives were held in slavery by the fear of death. ¹⁶ For it is clear that he did not come to help angels, but the descendants of Abraham. ¹⁷ Therefore he had to become like his brothers and sisters in every respect, so that he might be a merciful and faithful high priest in the service of God, to make a sacrifice of atonement for the sins of the people. ¹⁸ Because he himself was tested by what he suffered, he is able to help those who are being tested.

The word of the Lord. Thanks be to God.

Stand & turn to face the Gospel

Gospel Acclamation and Reading

♫ Alleluia! This child is the light to enlighten the nations, and the glory of your people Israel. Cf. S. Luke 2: 32 ♫ Alleluia!

The Lord be with you. And also with you.

✠ A reading from the ✠ Holy Gospel according to ✠ Luke (2: 22-40)
Glory to you, O Lord.

²² When the time came for their purification according to the law of Moses, Mary and Joseph brought Jesus up to Jerusalem to present him to the Lord. ²³ (as it is written in the law of the Lord, 'Every firstborn male shall be designated as holy to the Lord'), ²⁴ and they offered a sacrifice according to what is stated in the law of the Lord, 'a pair of turtle-doves or two young pigeons.' ²⁵ Now there was a man in Jerusalem whose name was Simeon; this man was righteous and devout, looking forward to the consolation of Israel, and the Holy Spirit rested on him. ²⁶ It had been revealed to him by the Holy Spirit that he would not see death before he had seen the Lord's Messiah. ²⁷ Guided by the Spirit, Simeon came into the temple; and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him what was customary under the law, ²⁸ Simeon took him in his arms and praised God, saying, ²⁹ 'Master, now you are dismissing your servant in peace, according to your word; ³⁰ for my eyes have seen your salvation, ³¹ which you have prepared in the presence of all peoples, ³² a light for revelation to the Gentiles and for glory to your people Israel.' ³³ And the child's father and mother were amazed at what was being said about him. ³⁴ Then Simeon blessed them and said to his mother Mary, 'This child is destined for the falling and the rising of many in Israel, and to be a sign that will be opposed ³⁵ so that the inner thoughts of many will be revealed - and a sword will pierce your own soul too.' ³⁶ There was also a prophet, Anna the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Asher. She was of a great age, having lived with her husband seven years after her marriage, ³⁷ then as a widow to the age of eighty-four. She never left the temple but worshipped there with fasting and prayer night and day. ³⁸ At that moment she came, and began to praise God and to speak about the child to all who were looking for the redemption of Jerusalem. ³⁹ When they had finished everything required by the law of the Lord, they returned to Galilee, to their own town of Nazareth. ⁴⁰ The child grew and became strong, filled with wisdom; and the favour of God was upon him.

Orate Fratres

Pray my sisters and brothers, that my sacrifice and yours may be acceptable to God, the almighty Father.

Prayer over the Offerings

May the offerings made with exultation by your Church

THE EUCHARISTIC PRAYER

The Lord be with you.
And also with you.

Lift up your hearts.
We lift them to the Lord.

Let us give thanks to the Lord our God.
It is right to give thanks and praise.

Celebrant sings the Preface in which God is praised for his mighty acts,

It is indeed right and good,
always and everywhere to give you thanks and praise through Jesus Christ, who is one with you from all eternity.
For on this day he appeared in the Temple in substance of our flesh to come near to us in judgement.
He searches the hearts of all your people and brings to light the image of your splendour.
Your servant Simeon acclaimed him as the light to lighten the nations while Anna spoke of him to all who looked for your redemption.
Destined for the falling and rising of many,
he was lifted high upon the cross and a sword of sorrow pierced his mother's heart when by his sacrifice he made our peace with you.
And now we rejoice and glorify your name that we, too, have seen your salvation and join with angels and archangels in their unending hymn of praise:

& the choir sings the Sanctus & Benedictus:

Sanctus, Sanctus, Sanctus, Dóminus Deus Sabaoth.
Pleni sunt caeli et terra glória tua. Hosánna in excélsis.
✠ Benedíctus qui venit in nómine Dómini. Hosánna in excélsis.
Holy, holy, holy Lord, God of power and might, heaven and earth are full of your glory. Hosanna in the highest.
✠ Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord. Hosanna in the highest.

The celebrant recalls the Last Supper, and this acclamation is said:

Great is the mystery of faith:
Christ has died: Christ is risen: Christ will come again.

The Prayer continues and leads into the doxology, to which all respond boldly: AMEN.

Give us this day our daily bread.
And forgive us our trespasses,

And lead us not into temptation;
but deliver us from evil.

The celebrant adds:

*Deliver us, Lord, from every evil, and grant us peace in our day.

Et pandit aeternam.

Christ is the morning star,
who when the night of this world is past

A Prayer of Fr Percy Dearmer (1867-1936)

English Anglican priest and liturgist best known as the author of The Parson's Handbook, a liturgical manual for Anglican clergy, and as editor of 'The English Hymnal'. A lifelong socialist, he was an early advocate of the public ministry of women and concerned with social justice. Dearmer, with Ralph Vaughan Williams and Martin Shaw, helped revive and spread traditional and medieval English musical forms. His ideas on patterns of worship have been linked to the Arts and Crafts Movement, while The English Hymnal reflects both folkloric scholarship and Christian Socialism. At his death, he was a canon of Westminster Abbey, where he ran a canteen for the unemployed.

Give to your Church, O God,
a bold vision and a daring charity,
a refreshed wisdom and a courteous understanding, that the eternal message of your Son
may be acclaimed as the good news of the age;
through him who makes all things new,
even Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Postcommunion Prayer

¶ BLESSING OF SAINT BLAISE

S. Blaise of Sebaste (d. 316), was a physician and bishop of Sebaste in historical Armenia (modern Sivas, Turkey). He is venerated as a saint in the Catholic, Anglican, Eastern, & Oriental Orthodox churches and is the patron saint of wool combers and for people suffering with throat disease. In the Latin Church, his feast falls on 3 February; in the Eastern Churches, on 11 February. According to the Acta Sanctorum, he was martyred by being beaten, attacked with iron combs, and beheaded.

Today we celebrate the feast of Saint Blaise, (3rd February) who was bishop of Sebaste in Armenia in the fourth century. Before being martyred, he is said to have healed a boy who was choking. Since the eighth century, Saint Blaise has been venerated as the patron of those who suffer from diseases of the throat. We pray in a special way today for protection from afflictions of the throat and from other illnesses. The blessing of Saint Blaise is a sign of our faith in God's protection and love for us and for the sick. Let us pray for those who seek the prayers of Saint Blaise today, that they may be protected from afflictions of the throat and other forms of illness, we pray to the Lord.

R./ Lord, have mercy.

Prayer of Throat Blessing

With crossed candles touched to the throat of each person, celebrant says:

Through the intercession of Saint Blaise, bishop and martyr, may God deliver you from every disease of the throat and from every other illness:
In the name of the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Spirit.

Each person responds: Amen.

During the blessing of throats, the Choir sings, Nunc dimittis,
(S. Luke 2: 29-32), as set by Sir George Dyson (c.1883-1964), from his Evening Service in D major.

Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace:
according to Thy word.

For mine eyes have seen:

Which thou hast prepared:
before the face of all people;

To be a light to lighten the Gentiles:
and to be the glory of thy people Israel.

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end.

TWO CANDLEMAS POEMS BY ROBERT HERRICK

Robert Herrick (baptised 24 August 1591 – buried 15 October 1674) was a 17th-century English lyric poet and Anglican cleric. He is best known for Hesperides (1648), a book of poems. This includes the carpe diem poem "To the Virgins, to Make Much of Time", with the first line "Gather ye rosebuds while ye may". The illustration of Herrick as if a statue is from the Dedication page of Hesperides.

CEREMONY UPON CANDELMAS EVE.

DOWN with the rosemary, and so
Down with the bays and misletoe;
Down with the holly, ivy, all,
Wherewith ye dress'd the Christmas Hall:
That so the superstitious find
No one least branch there left behind:
For look, how many leaves there be Neglected, there (maids, trust to me)
So many goblins you shall see.

CEREMONIES FOR CANDELMAS EVE

Down with the rosemary and bays,
Down with the misletoe;
Instead of holly, now up-raise
The greener box, for show.

The holly hitherto did sway;
Let box now domineer,
Until the dancing Easter-day,
Or Easter's eve appear.

Then youthful box, which now hath grace
Your houses to renew,
Grown old, surrender must his place
Unto the crisped yew.

When yew is out, then birch comes in,
And many flowers beside,
Both of a fresh and fragrant kin,
To honour Whitsuntide.

Green rushes then, and sweetest bents,
With cooler oaken boughs,
Come in for comely ornaments,
To re-adorn the house.
Thus times do shift; each thing his turn does hold;
New things succeed, as former things grow old.

CANDELMASS

Egeria, a Spanish nun and educated woman of private means joined a pilgrimage to Jerusalem in 383 CE. It is from her diary - Itinerarium Egeriae - that we know many things about the Jerusalem Church of the time, and in particular how it celebrated Holy Week and other liturgical festivals.

JERUSALEM'S CANDELMASS IN THE 300's

Egeria based herself in Jerusalem and travelled around the Holy Land for about three years. Writing of Candlemass (then observed on 14th February, 40 days from Epiphany - 6th January - rather than 40 days from 25th December), and apparently before the ceremony of candles had become part of the feast, Egeria says:

'On that day, there is a procession into the Anastasis [i.e. the original Church of the Holy Sepulchre], and all assemble there for the liturgy; everything is performed in the prescribed manner with the greatest solemnity, just as on Easter Sunday. All the priests give sermons, and the bishop, too; all preach on the Gospel text describing how on the fortieth day Joseph and Mary took the Lord to the Temple, and how Simeon and Anna the prophetess, the daughter of Phanuel, saw him, and what words they spoke on seeing the Lord, and of the offerings which his parents brought. After all these ceremonies, the Eucharist is then celebrated, and the dismissal given.'

We know for certain that by the middle of the 400's the festival was being observed with lighted candles, the custom from which the name 'Candlemass' evolved. We also know that in 542 it was transferred to 2nd February so as to be 40 days from the Nativity of the Lord, 25th December (even though Armenian Orthodox and a few others stayed with the old date).

THE POPULARITY OF CANDELMASS IN ENGLAND

If we fast-forward to Anglo-Saxon times in England, we see that by then Candlemass had become one of the pivotal celebrations of the year, in the same category as Easter, Whitsunday and All Saints' Day. The joy of blessing and carrying lit candles in procession, celebrating Christ, 'a light to enlighten the nations' is reflected in this passage from Ælfric (c.955–c.1010), Abbot of Eynsham:

'Be it known also to everyone that it is appointed in the custom of the church that on this day we should carry our lights to church, and let them be blessed there: and that we should go afterwards with that light among the houses of God, and sing the hymn which is appointed for that. Though some people cannot sing, they can nevertheless bear the light in their hands; for on this day was the true Light, Christ, borne to the temple, who redeemed us from darkness and will bring us to that eternal light, who lives and rules for ever without end.'

In medieval England Candlemass developed further into a festival shared between village, church and home. In fact, nowhere was the Feast celebrated with more gusto and devotion. After the coldest part of winter, the light and warmth of candles lifted the spirits of parishioners and spoke to them of Jesus the light of the world.

At Candlemass people brought to their parish church, for blessing, all the candles they would use at home throughout the coming year, together with those carried in the procession, and the year's supply of candles for use in the church.

The people took their own blessed candles home. They would light them and place them in windows during storms, as they prayed to be kept safe from danger. They would also light and hold them as they stood around the bed of a loved one who was dying, especially while the last Sacraments were being administered.

Powerful indeed were the links between the mid-winter celebration of the village, the liturgy of the parish church, and the spiritual life of the family.

INCARNATIONAL ENGLISH SPIRITUALITY

In his study of English church life in the later Middle Ages and the Reformation, The Stripping of the Altars (pp. 15-16), Eamon Duffy describes colourful Candlemas processions organized by lay guilds and devotional fraternities, involving the entire Christian community in mid-winter honouring the Light of the World. Duffy's point is that processing around the village church with lighted candles, singing Psalm 48 and the Nunc Dimittis, all the faithful would participate in and incarnate

'the Christmas paradoxes of the strength of the eternal God displayed in the fragility of the new-born child, of the appearance of the divine light in the darkness of human sin, of renewal and rebirth in the dead time of the year, and of the new life of Heaven manifested to Simeon's, and the world's, old age ... The imaginative power of all this for the laity is readily understood, for the texts of the ceremony are eloquent evocations of the universal symbolism of light, life, and renewal, themes which were carefully expounded in Candlemas sermons.'

(It is a sad fact that at the 'Reformation', candles for Candlemass, ashes for Ash Wednesday, and palms for Palm Sunday were abolished by law, to be eventually restored to the Church of England along with other 'sacramentals' only as a result of the Catholic Revival in the 19th century.)

CANDLEMASS TODAY

Forty days after the birth of Jesus, today's Mass is often regarded as rounding off the Christmass / Epiphany cycle of the Church's year. I notice that here in England more people are rediscovering Candlemass, even many who have drifted from the church's life. Especially this year with all of its gloom, it is not uncommon to find people who have kept their Christmas decorations going until now.

Today in this parish church at the start of Mass we had the blessing of candles, (including the boxes of candles to be used in the church over the next twelve months) and the procession.

Later, when everyone had received Holy Communion, we would again experience the connection between Christmas, Candlemass, Calvary ('the three C's' as we taught the children!) and Jesus the Light of the world, by singing slowly and quietly to him in the Blessed Sacrament on the Altar,

'O come, all ye faithful . . .
O come, let us adore him,
Christ the Lord.'

All that's as it should be, because while the readings and prayers for Candlemas take us back to the birth of Jesus, they also beckon us forward to his suffering and death.
